Navigation

František Slivko

About CV Gallery Contact

Uses a `` wrapped in `<nav>` semantic tag with `<h2>` for title and list for links inside. One element has `current-page-nav` id that decorates with underline link to the current page. Using `display: flex`, title is on the left and rest of the links on the right.

Footer

© František Slivko 2025

Footer consists of a `` with the text wrapped in `<footer>` semantic tag.

Each page has both navigation and footer in the exactly same configuration, except the `current-page-nav` id, and therefore they will not be mentioned in any way in individual subpage's documentation. Also each page uses `css/style.css` for style and layout.

Welcome page (index.html)

Consists of two `<section>`s.

The first one contains page title in `<h1>`, a small introduction in `` paragraph and a grid. This grid contains three cat images when screen width is more than `600px` and only one cat image when less.

The second section contains another `` paragraph with trivial information.

Welcome to my website

This website is basically my portfolio and includes the most important facts and some trivia about me.

Cat image

It would seem that I like cats, but that is not entirely true. Yes, they look cute, but I don't have some special relationship with them. I've never owned a cat. Do I want to have a cat? Probably, I'm not entirely sure how that would work out.

About page (about.html)

Consists of two `<section>`s.

The first has only `<h1>` page title inside.

And the second section a `<h3>` subtitle and a grid with image and `` paragraph. In mobile view (<600px width) image is almost page width and the paragraph bellow. In large screen view (>600px width) they are beside each other.

About me

Hi I'm František Slivko.

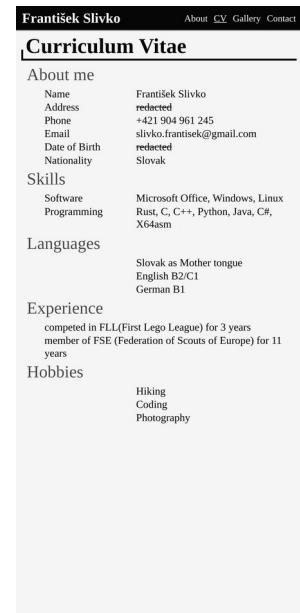

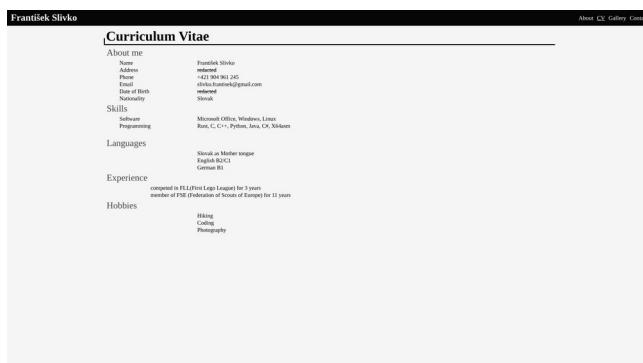

I'm currently studying for a bachelor's degree in informatics at IMC Krems in Austria. My interest in informatics started a few years ago when I was given a book about beginner programming in Pascal. Since then I've tried quite a few programming languages and explored some of the possibilities of coding. Among those design and development of programming languages got me interested the most. As a long-term project, I'm currently developing my own compiler for a simple general-purpose imperative C-like programming language of my own design. Another passion of mine is scouting.

CV (cv.html)

Consists of two `<section>`s.

The first one contains `<h1>` title.

The second contains `` grid with the rest of page's content.
